

Calculus Prerequisite

The UC MBA program has approved the online business calculus course from Canyon College for the calculus prerequisite. The website to the school is www.canyoncollege.edu, from there click "online courses," scroll down to business courses and select BU320.

Candidates can also take a business calculus course from Cincinnati State. Students can take this course as a non-matriculating student; however, they will have to show proof of having completed college algebra or take a placement test. Their website is www.cincinnatiastate.edu.

The University of Cincinnati offers a calculus course, the required course is MATH226. Candidates can visit this website to find out when it is offered, www.onestop.uc.edu/learningopp/qtr.asp. Select schedule of classes, discipline - math and evening courses, and you will get a list of the math courses and when they are offered. MATH226 is usually offered in the evening.

If you are interested in taking the calculus course from UC, go to the website for the Transfer and Lifelong Learning Center at www.uc.edu/tllc. Click on the left link for non-matriculated registration to get the required form then on the FAQ's link to get registration information.

Candidates can also locate a calculus course from another institution. If there is a concern as to whether it will be accepted as the prerequisite, please contact the Graduate Programs Office at (513) 556-7020 or by email at graduate@uc.edu.
